Germans Offer New
Peril To 7th ArmyThe War
Today...By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

TODAY'S special: British Prime Minister Churchill told his house of commons yesterday that he and Marshal Stalin had reached an agreement on dealing with the Balkans to prevent future wars, and that President Roosevelt had been kept "constantly informed."

These are days when the blood of the crystal-gazer surges hot through his veins as he views the rush of the Red armies toward Berlin, but this isn't a good time for prophecy beyond recording that the Allies are moving admirably along the sure road to victory.

We shall be wise to take a tip from Premier Churchill's remark that he couldn't attempt to "set limits to the superb and titanic events which we are now witnessing or upon their reaction in every theatre." In his opinion "the wisest and most far sighted prophets will reserve their opinion until the results are known."

However, Churchill did give us a valuable pointer. The Russian drive is part of a coordinated victory plan to keep all fronts "in constant flame until the final climax."

The idea, of course, is never to relax the big squeeze on the Germans for a moment, especially from the two main fronts apparently the original Allied plans called for the offensives by the Russians and the Western Allies, and we should have seen both striking all-out now now if Nazi Marshal Von Rundstedt's counter-drive hadn't upset our push on the Rhine. Perhaps that would have been the ideal situation, but time may demonstrate that the interlude provided by Rundstedt has been profitable for the Allies.

In any event, Gen. Eisenhower presumably will hasten the launching of a major offensive, and pending the full-fledged attack will maintain as great pressure on the German lines as possible. We see

Mullins Gets Third
Star To 'E' Award

The Salem plant of the Mullins Mfg. Corp. has received its third star to the Army-Navy 'E' flag for continued excellence in war production.

The new award was announced in a letter from Undersecretary of War Patterson, who congratulated officials and workers today for their production achievements. The plant had received two stars since the original 'E' pennant was presented.

Official presentation of the third star will be made at a brief ceremony at the plant in the near future, in the presence of company officials and representatives of each production department.

INAUGURATION
DUE SATURDAY

President Tolls Over Address Which May Be Shortest In History

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Rugs came out of the White House today, more Roosevelt moved in, and the President who has served longest tolled over what may be history's shortest inaugural address.

In an ungarmented, abbreviated ceremony at noon tomorrow, President Roosevelt will take the oath of office for an epochal fourth time, then deliver the speech. He is aiming at 500 words.

He may lower the record of the last wartime chief executive, Abraham Lincoln, whose second inaugural address approximated 600 words.

Hundreds of feet will be tramping White House corridors tomorrow. Hard-to-replace rugs were put in temporary storage. Some 1,500 guests, the top strata of American officialdom plus diplomats and a handful of outsiders, are expected at a buffet luncheon following the ceremony on the south portico. Another 1,000 persons are scheduled to attend a reception and tea later in the afternoon.

For the ceremony itself, only 5,000 or 6,000 persons have invitations—because this is wartime. That compares with 25,000 or 30,000 in peaceful years. Most of those on the invitation list will have to stand out in the yard to see what's going on. No seats are being provided.

Just plain spectators will have to stretch their necks from behind an iron fence—at least 200 yards away. Half a dozen Roosevelt's of the last generation are on hand to see grandpa inaugurated again, but some of them are too young to remember much about it.

Radio has arranged short wave descriptions of the ceremony in English, French, Portuguese and Spanish.

Formerly associated with the Crucible Steel Co., Mr. Taylor retired in 1934 after associations with the United States Steel Corp. in Pittsburgh. He was considered a leading tool steel expert.

He was active in nearly all community affairs until his recent illness.

U. S. Troops On Luzon Take Highway Town After Battle

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEAL-QUARTERS, LUZON, JAN. 19.—American mobile guns, mortars, armor, smashing a cleverly concealed concentration of tanks and artillery in a battle, captured the Highway town of Urdaneta early yesterday in the first bitter fight of the Luzon invasion.

American column 20 miles south captured the road and railroad junction of Panoli in a five-mile gain and pressed toward the important city of Tarlac, 70 road miles from Manila. Another infantry force approached Tarlac from Camiling.

All advances were supported directly by American planes operating off the Lingayen airfield. Formosa and even parts of the China coast are within reach of the long-range fighters.

The Formosa domestic radio warned today that large scale enemy air raids "will be intensified henceforth." In a broadcast picked up by the Federal Communications commission the Formosa announcer said "the ferocity of the war now raging is unprecedented in war annals of the world, and the Japanese empire is really facing a crisis."

Urdaneta, 27 road miles southeast of Lingayen gulf, was ablaze as both sides were pinned down for hours at a time by mortar fire.

Associated Press War Correspondent Al Dopping wrote from Urdaneta that "when the Japanese failed to stop our tanks with their own... their infantry made fanatical charges at the American armored group. Two Japanese with dynamite strapped to their sides ran at an American tank. They were mowed down by machinegun fire."

Dopping said Yank artillery fire poured upon the enemy-held position and the Japanese "could be heard groaning and screaming as American shells exploded among them. Before dawn all was quiet."

The remainder of the Japanese garrison likely was pursued southward, heading for the Cabaruan hills where an enemy force is believed entrenched.

Capture of Urdaneta, which cleared the Nipponese from positions commanding the northern portion of the Manila-Bagui highway, will enable the Sixth army's right wing to roll southward again after 48 hours of waiting for the left wing to catch up.

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—A Catholic priest, summoned by telephone to a home in nearby Harrison today, found two children of Mrs. Marion Elizabeth Stokes shot to death through the heart and Mrs. Stokes, crucifix in hand, wounded so seriously that she was not expected to live.

Deputy Sheriffs Albert Piening and Elmer Bowersox identified the victims as Arlene Margaret Stokes, 4, and Gerald Lee Stokes, four months.

Each was in a child's bed, and each had two bullet wounds over the heart.

Rev. Francis L. Garrity, pastor of St. John's church at Harrison, said he was summoned to the Stokes home shortly before 10 a. m. by Mrs. Stokes, who implored him to "come right over. I've done a terrible thing. I'm sorry."

Soviets Also Near Lodz In Polish Drive

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Marshal Stalin's forces captured the 1,200-year-old city of Krakow, 47 miles from Germany's Silesian border, today and the Germans said the Red army had battled into Lodz in a mighty sweep of western Poland.

The fall of Krakow collapsed the strongest German position in southern Poland and released large Soviet forces for a descent on German industry. The city was the ancient capital of Poland and the capital of the government general that Hitler set up in that country.

Complete liberation of Budapest was foreshadowed by the German high command, which said the German garrison had withdrawn across the Danube in the Hungarian capital.

A fourth winter offensive in southern Poland, announced by Stalin, swept forward 38 miles on a 50-mile front southeast of Krakow and put the Germans in Slovakia in a vise. The Germans said they were pulling out of eastern Slovakia.

Stalin said the capture of Krakow, seized after a fierce street battle, had uncovered the defenses of the huge Polish coal fields of the Dombrowa region to the southwest.

Berlin said the "garrison of Budapest withdrew to the western bank of the Danube," a confirmation of Moscow announcements that the entire German force in pest on the east bank had been disposed of.

The language of the Berlin communiqué indicated that the entire Budapest position had been written off in the high command's books.

Many Prisoners Taken. With the German communiqué speaking of the "onpushing Russians" in that sector, it was evident German forces in Budapest on the west bank, were resigned to Soviet occupation of all quarters of the city shortly.

Moscow dispatches said the roll of prisoners rose from about 60,000 last night to 65,000 this morning in Budapest. Less than three per cent of Budapest was in German hands Jan. 16, by Moscow account.

Budapest would be the 17th European capital to be freed from German domination by the Allies.

Russian cavalry was thrown into the Soviet sweep of western Poland that has covered 70 miles from Warsaw to Lodz in two days.

Berlin admitted that several key towns shielding the German border had been evacuated and hinted that a general withdrawal inside the German border was underway.

Going The Limit For Safety

The Roosevelt administration's adoption of a policy of compliance with War and Navy department specifications for increasing the war effort has led already to a number of restrictive measures and will lead to more in the months to come. Restrictions on public gatherings, use of transportation, use of electricity, public amusements and the tightening-up of selective service formulas—with national service in the offing as an administration-backed measure—are conditioning the public for additional curtailments of privilege in the future.

These steps are justifiable on the grounds of necessity. Each of them in its separate effect contains the elements of controversy, but the controversy is being minimized in ratio to popular acceptance of the official claim of necessity. The public is in a mood to go the limit for wartime safety. There is growing anxiety about the prospect of a lengthening war and, therefore, a growing inclination to do whatever may be necessary to shorten its span. If more sacrifices can be made, there can be no argument against them. If one day can be subtracted from the duration of the fighting, or one life subtracted from the list of the dead, it would be worth a thousand abandoned privileges at home.

Plainly, however, each claim of necessity entails separate proof. As each new move is promulgated in Washington, there occurs simultaneously outside Washington a new question. Ultimately, under a government responsible to the people, all the questions must be answered satisfactorily. The public is eager to do whatever may be necessary to hasten victory; but it will remain as strongly inclined as ever to challenge any move that suggests caprice, or, what is worse, arbitrary decisions to do something merely for the sake of doing it. That kind of monkey business took cuffs off pants, only to put them back on again.

Russia Plows Through

It can be no secret to the Russians that the early speed of their winter offensive is making their allies wish it could be matched in the west. But it must not be forgotten that Russians know things about their offensive that most Americans and many Britons forget.

It was six months in the making. It was prepared at the frontier of Russia's previous gains against the Germans, at the end of supply lines that ran continuously over land. It represents, as the Germans already have perceived, Russia's climactic aid of the United States and Great Britain. It is taking place in territory ideally suited to swift military movement, and it is manned by soldiers who have had a great deal of previous experience in winter fighting. Moreover, it is so designed as to hit the Germans simultaneously at a great many points, with sufficient force to stagger them at all points and to demoralize them completely at some points.

There is no black magic in Russia's ability to plow through to capture two such vital points as Warsaw and Krakow the same day. It is the result of an overwhelming combination of military strength—a miracle only in the sense that the successful invasion through Normandy last June, after developing trans-Atlantic supply lines, was a miracle. It is possible, certainly it is proper, to give full credit to the Russians for their sensational gains in the first days of their 1945 offensive to reach Germany and force the war to an end without minimizing in any way the credit that belongs to the other allies. They need Russia, and Russia needs them. That is why the alliance is working well in the war. It is why millions of earnest men and women in all nations of the alliance believe it can be made to work well when the war is over.

No Strikes In Wartime

Rep. Jack Easton of Willoughby has made a proposal for state regulation of public utility employees in Ohio during wartime that involves one of the most serious questions raised by the war.

What is the proper measure of a worker's responsibility for maintaining war production?

While Rep. Easton's proposed law would affect only employees of public utilities, the practical fact of the matter is that every employee in an essential wartime industry is of comparable importance. Spokesmen for labor unions acknowledged as much shortly after Pearl Harbor when they made their no-strike pledge. The federal government has accepted the same doctrine by seizing property to avert work stoppages that would interfere with the war. The federal congress has embraced the same principle by passing the Smith-Connally act which was supposed to minimize the possibility of wartime strikes.

Rep. Easton merely proposes for Ohio a specific application of a conviction so wisely held it has passed out of the realm of controversy—that in wartime any strike which interferes with prosecution of the war is contrary to public policy and public welfare. His bill, which was inspired by the threatened disaster in the Cleveland area when employees of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. walked out, may not become law, but it will cause some soul-searching to be done.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, January 20.

A SWERVE to a more stable, crystallized and secure basis in the trend of events may be looked for under the changing lunar auspices, yet the romantic, idealistic, emotional and bizarre will not entirely vanish from the day's programs and policies. There will be a concentration rather than a dissipating of the forces, with sounder incentives, well-laid-out and purposeful plans and objectives. Reasonable ambitions, sensible methods and tested merits and virtues may be assured enduring rewards.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of the stabilization of the affairs, even though these concern more poetic, romantic and idealistic expression of unusual talents or creative skills. An integration of these talents, along more constructive and workable lines, should bring proper rewards, with merit and serious effort winning recognition and putting the fortunes on a safer and more lasting foundation. Romance and happiness may find more enduring and deeper security.

A child born on this day will have inclination to develop its exceptional talents and urge for fine expression on sound and constructive foundations.

The Fourth Term

By James Thrasher

Once a precedent is broken nobody gets very excited over the subsequent breaking of one of its pieces. So perhaps the least remarkable thing about the beginning of President Roosevelt's fourth term is the fourth term itself. But this does not mean that his becomingly brief and simple inauguration is not an important milestone.

For one thing it serves as a good place to pause for a look at what has happened since Mr. Roosevelt's third re-election. Momentous events have taken place in those ten weeks—the German offensive in Belgium, the manpower and production crisis at home, and the outspoken differences of Allied policy.

These events have served to quiet the high emotions of the November election and to bring the country back to sober and rather disheartening reality. Their very seriousness has resolved many of our domestic differences. They have brought some hot-headed proposals of solution, of course, but their general effect has been to unify.

A promise of unity has been seen in Washington as well as elsewhere in the country. It was evident in the President's conciliatory message to congress and in his new appointments to the State department. It was further evident in Senator Vandenberg's speech on foreign policy, which gave hope of greater cooperation between congress and the White House in the future.

Mr. Roosevelt's State department selections distressed some of the New Deal press and public, but they seem to have found favor with a bipartisan majority of Americans. It was apparent that domestic politics and policies were not uppermost in the President's mind when he made them. And in making them it was obvious that he had eased toward the middle from his self-styled course "a little left of center."

This move of the President's was matched by the influential Republican leader, Senator Vandenberg, whose foreign policy program swung him very close to Mr. Roosevelt's.

The promise of these events, together with the good news from the Philippines and the eastern and western European fronts, permitted Mr. Roosevelt's third term to end at a hopeful moment. That hope did not, however, translate itself into last summer's national mood of fatuous optimism.

Mr. Roosevelt occupies the spotlight of public attention today not because he is our first fourth-term President. The public attention is directed beyond the inauguration to Mr. Roosevelt's imminent and crucial meeting with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin.

He carries to this meeting a more direct mandate than any he has taken to the previous conferences of national leaders. It seems safe to say that it was Mr. Roosevelt's experience in former meetings which played a large part in his re-election. But it is also clear that, while he takes with him again the American people's confidence and trust, he also carries their demand for action and solution, and a candid accounting of decisions reached.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Eye Exercises and Vision

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A YEAR or so ago Mr. Aldous Huxley turned from the writing of almost flawless modern novels to boost the methods of a Mr. Bates for the improvement of vision. In his youth Mr. Huxley suffered an attack of keratitis punctata which left one eye just capable of light perception and the other with about 5 per cent of normal vision. He undoubtedly got the best of medical advice which evidently was discouraging as to any helpful treatment. But it seems to me a lesson which all doctors should take to heart, that this highly intelligent man was never satisfied with, so discouraging a verdict, even though he appreciated the reasonableness of it.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Not Me

There is something in every human nature which says—"Somehow, somehow there is some method that is going to cure me of this horrible disability. It was not destined that this should happen to me."

Those of us on the outside can be more calm and detached about it, but we must recognize that human urge to try anything that even suggests relief.

Eye Exercises

Mr. Huxley met a woman disciple of the late Mr. Bates who introduced him to a set of eye exercises which includes "winking," "nose reading," "palming," and "sunning." Within a month or more he had learned to read without the use of lenses and could read without fatigue and strain for he had learned to avoid the conditions making for strain. He admits his visual acuity has not increased, but says he has learned to use what he has to great advantage.

The act of seeing is not entirely confined to the eyes. There is a brain part of it, too, and if I understand what is meant by Mr. Huxley the exercises taught him to sharpen and control the brain centers for vision.

He published his experiences in a book called "The Art of Seeing," which caused considerable comment at the time among oculists, most of it unfavorable. I will admit as I read the book, it seemed very foolish and confused, but then I was never in the position of being afflicted with poor vision.

Recently the discussion has come up again in the medical magazines. Dr. W. B. Lancaster, of Boston, points out that one of the fundamental laws of biology is that repetition of an act facilitates its performance. The first time one makes a billiard shot he does it awkwardly, the hundredth time he does it with ease. Thus he thinks eye exercises are valuable for treatment of color blindness, to increase acuity of peripheral vision, and for speed and facility in doing typing and book-keeping even if some ocular defect is present. The methods of eye exercises developed up to the present are clumsy, but with scientific oculists giving attention to this field it may be made very useful.

Substitution Harmful

It should be stressed and stressed hard, however, that it does real harm to substitute these methods of eye exercise for other treatment that has proved successful in helping vision in chronic eye conditions. This is where the faddist and enthusiast like Mr. Huxley is likely to do harm. He is ridiculous, as Dr. Stewart Duke-Elder, one of the most eminent living oculists, says when he says these methods result in relief or cure of such serious diseases of the eye as glaucoma, cataract, iritis or detachment of the retina because they "reduce nervous muscular tension."

It is a good rule to be sure any treatment one is giving, is not doing harm, and especially is not replacing a tried and true method. The eye is no part of the anatomy to monkey with. There is no field of medicine more scientific and exact than that dealing with the eye. Be sure you have exhausted all really tested methods of cure before you start in on an untried one.

PVT. LENTZ RECOVERS FROM SECOND WOUND

129TH GENERAL HOSPITAL.

England—Wounded in the left arm by an artillery shell during an enemy barrage near Duren, Germany, Pvt. Robert L. Lentz, 22, of R. D. 3, Salem, Ohio, is now recuperating at this U. S. Army general hospital in England.

"Pvt. Lentz is making satisfactory progress and probably will complete his convalescence in the United States," said Capt. Thomas Mulligan, his ward surgeon of Boston, Mass.

Pvt. Lentz, who took part in the invasion of Sicily, fought on the French coast on D-day in the invasion of the continent. He was wounded in the knee and shoulder in October while battling enemy troops near Aachen. After being hospitalized in Paris, he returned to duty and was slightly wounded in the Aachen sector.

"My second wound, in which I received a shell fragment in the hip, was slight and did not prevent me from staying on duty," related Pvt. Lentz. "The next day, however, while lying in a foxhole during a heavy barrage, an enemy shell landed a few feet away and a fragment struck me in the left arm. I had immediate first aid and was carried by litter to a jeep and rushed back to the battalion aid station and from there sent to other hospitals to be evacuated to England."

Pvt. Lentz is the son of Raymond C. Lentz of Salem. He entered the Army in December, 1942, and received military training at Ft. Knox, Ky. In civilian life he was employed as a welder at the Babcock & Wilcox plant in Alliance. He has a half-brother, George Naugle, 17, who is in the Merchant Marine training school at Sheephead Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Going The Limit For Safety

The Roosevelt administration's adoption of a policy of compliance with War and Navy department specifications for increasing the war effort has led already to a number of restrictive measures and will lead to more in the months to come. Restrictions on public gatherings, use of transportation, use of electricity, public amusements and the tightening-up of selective service formulas—with national service in the offing as an administration-backed measure—are conditioning the public for additional curtailments of privilege in the future.

These steps are justifiable on the grounds of necessity. Each of them in its separate effect contains the elements of controversy, but the controversy is being minimized in ratio to popular acceptance of the official claim of necessity. The public is in a mood to go the limit for wartime safety. There is growing anxiety about the prospect of a lengthening war and, therefore, a growing inclination to do whatever may be necessary to shorten its span. If more sacrifices can be made, there can be no argument against them. If one day can be subtracted from the duration of the fighting, or one life subtracted from the list of the dead, it would be worth a thousand abandoned privileges at home.

Plainly, however, each claim of necessity entails separate proof. As each new move is promulgated in Washington, there occurs simultaneously outside Washington a new question. Ultimately, under a government responsible to the people, all the questions must be answered satisfactorily. The public is eager to do whatever may be necessary to hasten victory, but it will remain as strongly inclined as ever to challenge any move that suggests caprice, or, what is worse, arbitrary decisions to do something merely for the sake of doing it. That kind of monkey business took cuffs off pants, only to put them back on again.

Russia Plows Through

It can be no secret to the Russians that the early speed of their winter offensive is making their allies wish it could be matched in the west. But it must not be forgotten that Russians know things about their offensive that most Americans and many Britons forget.

It was six months in the making. It was prepared at the frontier of Russia's previous gains against the Germans, at the end of supply lines that ran continuously over land. It represents, as the Germans already have perceived, Russia's climactic aid of the United States and Great Britain. It is taking place in territory ideally suited to swift military movement, and it is manned by soldiers who have had a great deal of previous experience in winter fighting. Moreover, it is so designed as to hit the Germans simultaneously at a great many points, with sufficient force to stagger them at all points and to demoralize them completely at some points.

There is no black magic in Russia's ability to plow through to capture two such vital points as Warsaw and Krakow the same day. It is the result of an overwhelming combination of military strength—a miracle only in the sense that the successful invasion through Normandy last June, after developing trans-Atlantic supply lines, was a miracle. It is possible, certainly it is proper, to give full credit to the Russians for their sensational gains in the first days of their 1945 offensive to reach Germany and force the war to an end without minimizing in any way the credit that belongs to the other allies. They need Russia, and Russia needs them. That is why the alliance is working well in the war. It is why millions of earnest men and women in all nations of the alliance believe it can be made to work well when the war is over.

No Strikes In Wartime

Rep. Jack Easton of Willoughby has made a proposal for state regulation of public utility employees in Ohio during wartime that involves one of the most serious questions raised by the war.

What is the proper measure of a worker's responsibility for maintaining war production?

While Rep. Easton's proposed law would affect only employees of public utilities, the practical fact of the matter is that every employee in an essential wartime industry is of comparable importance. Spokesmen for labor unions acknowledged as much shortly after Pearl Harbor when they made their no-strike pledge. The federal government has accepted the same doctrine by seizing property to avert work stoppages that would interfere with the war. The federal congress has embraced the same principle by passing the Smith-Connally act which was supposed to minimize the possibility of wartime strikes.

Rep. Easton merely proposes for Ohio a specific application of a conviction so wisely held it has passed out of the realm of controversy—that in wartime any strike which interferes with production of the war is contrary to public policy and public welfare. His bill, which was inspired by the threatened disaster in the Cleveland area when employees of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. walked out, may not become law, but it will cause some soul-searching to be done.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, January 20.

A SWERVE to a more stable, crystallized and secure basis in the trend of events may be looked for under the changing lunar auspices, yet the romantic, idealistic, emotional and bizarre will not entirely vanish from the day's programs and policies. There will be a concentration rather than a dissipating of the forces, with sounder incentives, well-laid-out and purposeful plans and objectives. Reasonable ambitions, sensible methods and tested merits and virtues may be assured enduring rewards.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of the stabilization of the affairs, even though these concern more poetic, romantic and idealistic expression of unusual talents or creative skills. An integration of these talents, along more constructive and workable lines, should bring proper rewards, with merit and serious effort winning recognition and putting the fortunes on a safer and more lasting foundation. Romance and happiness may find more enduring and deeper security.

A child born on this day will have inclination to develop its exceptional talents and urge for fine expression on sound and constructive foundations.

The Fourth Term

By James Thrasher

Once a precedent is broken nobody gets very excited over the subsequent breaking of one of its pieces. So perhaps the least remarkable thing about the beginning of President Roosevelt's fourth term is the fourth term itself. But this does not mean that his becomingly brief and simple inauguration is not an important milestone.

For one thing it serves as a good place to pause for a look at what has happened since Mr. Roosevelt's third re-election. Momentous events have taken place in those ten weeks—the German offensive in Belgium, the manpower and production crisis at home, and the outspoken differences of Allied policy.

These events have served to quiet the high emotions of the November election and to bring the country back to sober and rather disheartening reality. Their very seriousness has resolved many of our domestic differences. They have brought some hot-headed proposals of solution, of course, but their general effect has been to unify.

A promise of unity has been seen in Washington as well as elsewhere in the country. It was evident in the President's conciliatory message to congress and in his new appointments to the State department. It was further evident in Senator Vandenberg's speech on foreign policy, which gave hope of greater cooperation between congress and the White House in the future.

Mr. Roosevelt's State department selections distressed some of the New Deal press and public, but they seem to have found favor with a bipartisan majority of Americans. It was apparent that domestic politics and policies were not uppermost in the President's mind when he made them. And in making them it was obvious that he had eased toward the middle from his self-styled course "a little left of center."

This move of the President's was matched by the influential Republican leader, Senator Vandenberg, whose foreign policy program swung him very close to Mr. Roosevelt's.

The promise of these events, together with the good news from the Philippines and the eastern and western European fronts, permitted Mr. Roosevelt's third term to end at a hopeful moment. That hope did not, however, translate itself into last summer's national mood of fatuous optimism.

Mr. Roosevelt occupies the spotlight of public attention today not because he is our first fourth-term President. The public attention is directed beyond the inauguration to Mr. Roosevelt's imminent and crucial meeting with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin.

He carries to this meeting a more direct mandate than any he has taken to the previous conferences of national leaders. It seems safe to say that it was Mr. Roosevelt's experience in former meetings which played a large part in his re-election. But it is also clear that, while he takes with him again the American people's confidence and trust, he also carries their demand for action and solution, and a candid accounting of decisions reached.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Eye Exercises and Vision

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A YEAR or so ago Mr. Aldous Huxley turned from the writing of almost flawless modern novels to boost the methods of a Mr. Bates for the improvement of "vision." In his youth Mr. Huxley suffered an attack of keratitis punctata which left one eye just capable of light perception and the other with about 5 per cent of normal vision. He undoubtedly got the best of medical advice which evidently was discouraging as to any helpful treatment. But it seems to me a lesson which all doctors should take to heart, that this highly intelligent man was never satisfied with, so discouraging a verdict, even though he appreciated the reasonableness of it.

Dr. Clendingning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Not Me

There is something in every human nature which says—"Somehow, somehow there is some method that is going to cure me of this horrible disability. It was not destined that this should happen to me."

Those of us on the outside can be more calm and detached about it, but we must recognize that human urge to try anything that even suggests relief.

Eye Exercises

Mr. Huxley met a woman disciple of the late Mr. Bates who introduced him to a set of eye exercises which includes "winking," "nose reading," "palming," and "sunning." Within a month or more he had learned to read without the use of lenses and could read without fatigue and strain for he had learned to avoid the conditions making for strain. He admits his visual acuity has not increased, but says he has learned to use what he has to great advantage.

The act of seeing is not entirely confined to the eyes. There is a brain part of it, too, and if I understand what is meant by Mr. Huxley the exercises taught him to sharpen and control the brain centers for vision.

He published his experiences in a book called "The Art of Seeing," which caused considerable comment at the time among oculists, most of it unfavorable. I will admit as I read the book, it seemed very foolish and confused, but then I was never in the position of being afflicted with poor vision.

Recently the discussion has come up again in the medical magazines. Dr. W. B. Lancaster, of Boston, points out that one of the fundamental laws of biology is that repetition of an act facilitates its performance. The first time one makes a billiard shot he does it awkwardly, the hundredth time (eagerly and with ease. Thus he thinks eye exercises are valuable for treatment of color blindness, to increase acuity of peripheral vision, and for speed and facility in doing typing and book-keeping even if some ocular defect is present. The methods of eye exercises developed up to the present are clumsy, but with scientific oculists giving attention to this field it may be made very useful.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—History's briefest inaugural address may be delivered tomorrow when President Roosevelt takes the oath of office for the fourth term. He hopes to restrict the speech to 500 words.

For the ceremony, some 5,000 to 6,000 persons hold invitations compared with 25,000 or 30,000 in peacetime.

Germany's oil supply is at a critically low level. Without doubt, Washington experts say, the Red army's smash into Silesia would deal the Nazis' dwindling gasoline supply a severe blow. Soviet troops thrusting through southwest Poland rapidly are depriving the Germans of one of their last remaining gasoline sources. So economic warfare experts suggest that the enemy's synthetic plant and crude oil refinery losses in this area, coupled with bomb damage to plants in central and western Germany, may soon sharply constrict his military activities.

Lard, other shortenings, salad and cooking oils will be back on the ration lists Monday. Meanwhile retail sales of these commodities are frozen. When the ban is lifted Monday each will be rationed at two red points a pound. Cause of the sales halt: To prevent runs on short supplies while the trade puts rationing into effect.

From a high government official came the disclosure that more than a full division of troops have been shifted from uniforms to overalls to work on such critical war items as tires, copper and foundry products. Estimating that 600,000 additional men are needed for overseas duty by June 30 while 1,000,000 replacements are trained, the Army and Navy want these 16,000 men lent to industry returned.

TRUSTEES, CLERKS PLAN STATE RALLY

Township trustees and clerks will hold their 17th annual convention in Columbus Jan. 25-27.

Principal item of business for the township officials will be adjustments to wartime conditions and plans for post-war projects. In addition to a school on the duties of township trustees and clerks, the new attorney general and state highway director will address the group.

J. R. Thomas of Haysville is president of the association and Charles P. Baker, Jr., of Painesville is secretary-treasurer.

Gov. and Mrs. Frank J. Lausche will be guests at the banquet Thursday night at which Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant will be the speaker.

Westminster Choir To Give Concert Feb. 22

The nationally-known Westminster mixed choir of Princeton, N. Y., directed by Dr. John Finley Williamson, will give two concerts in Youngstown, Thursday, Feb. 22, at the Westminster church.

The dead Jerry's throat was bruised as if from choking and there was a bruise on his forehead. The theory is he was killed by his disgruntled soldiers.

Taken prisoner, Sgt. H. G. Cockrell, Hillsboro, Texas, was ordered to carry a wounded Nazi piggyback across a field. "Somewhere along the way the way the German was knocked from my back by a rifle shot," related the sergeant, who made a break across 100 yards of open territory with two other captured Americans and a wounded Nazi he had talked into surrendering. All four arrived safe.

The textbooks on anti-tank tactics don't say anything about setting up your guns on the third floor of a house but Lt. Carnot Larson of Pittsburgh, Pa., had his men dismantle a heavy 57 millimeter anti-tank gun, carry it up three flights and set it up in a room commanding a view of a road down which Nazi tanks were attacking.

"It worked fine," Larson said.

Three doughboys risked their lives to provide their squad with something warm to sleep under. Crossing a 1,000-yard open area where mortar shells were falling at the rate of five or six a minute. They got back with a blanket and rations for each man.

The volunteers were Pfc. Wayne S. White of Matton, Ill.; Staff Sgt. Fred R. Vocera, Cromwell, Tex., and Pfc. Paul B. Fife of Richmond, Ky.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—History's briefest inaugural address may be delivered tomorrow when President Roosevelt takes the oath of office for the fourth term. He hopes to restrict the speech to 500 words.
For the ceremony, some 5,000 to 6,000 persons hold invitations compared with 25,000 or 30,000 in peacetime.

Germany's oil supply is at a critically low level. Without doubt,
Washington experts say, the Red army's smash into Silesia would deal the Nazis' dwindling gasoline supply a severe blow. Soviet troops thrusting through southwest Poland rapidly are depriving the Germans of one of their last remaining gasoline sources. So economic warfare experts suggest that the enemy's synthetic plant and crude oil refinery losses in this area, coupled with bomb damage to plants in central and western Germany, may soon sharply constrict his military activities.

Lard, other shortenings, salad and cooking oils will be back on the ration lists Monday. Meanwhile retail sales of these commodities are frozen. When the ban is lifted Monday each will be rationed at two red points a pound.
Cause of the sales halt: To prevent runs on short supplies while the trade puts rationing into effect.

From a high government official came the disclosure that more than a full division of troops have been shifted from uniforms to overalls to work on such critical war items as tires, copper and foundry products. Estimating that 600,000 additional men are needed for overseas duty by June 30 while 1,000,000 replacements are trained, the Army and Navy want these 16,000 men lent to industry returned.

TRUSTEES, CLERKS
PLAN STATE RALLY

Township trustees and clerks will hold their 17th annual convention in Columbus Jan. 25-27.

Principal item of business for the township officials will be adjustments to wartime conditions and plans for post-war projects. In addition to a school on the duties of township trustees and clerks, the new attorney general and state highway director will address the group.

J. R. Thomas of Haysville is president of the association and Charles P. Baker, Jr., of Palmsville is secretary-treasurer.

Gov. and Mrs. Frank J. Lausche will be guests at the banquet
Thursday night at which Chief Justice Carl V. Weyandt will be the speaker.

Westminster Choir To Give Concert Feb. 22

The nationally-known Westminster mixed choir of Princeton, N. Y., directed by Dr. John Finley Williamson, will give two concerts in Youngstown, Thursday, Feb. 22, at the Westminster church.
Salem music lovers, members of the various study clubs, are planning to attend.

Local and county-wide farm or-

Monday, Jan. 29. The meeting will committee, will speak on the subject, "Agricultural Production and

Its Effects on the National Econ-

J. Glenn Bates will discuss "The

EXPECT MARRIAGE RATE TO DECLINE

(By United Press)
NEW YORK — The number of marriages in the United States will fall below the peacetime average soon when the war marriage boom declines from its 1942 peak, a statistical report showed recently.

The report pointed out that in 1944 the marriage rate for the country as a whole declined from the previous year, a trend that is expected to continue.

The overall figures do not tell the complete story, however, say the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. While cities of 100,000 or more in the New England, the Middle Atlantic, and the East North Central States have experienced a decline since 1942, in the urban centers of the West North Central States the decline did not begin until 1943 and in the Southern urban centers until 1944.

The larger cities of the Mountain and Pacific Coast States actually reported an increase in marriages for 1944, though the gain over 1943 was small.

DRAFT OF NURSES IMPERATIVE, SAYS SURGEON GENERAL

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Army's surgeon general said today inadequacy of nursing care, in the face of a 270 per cent increase in battle casualty patients, makes it imperative that nurses be drafted.

Since May, said Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, "our patients have increased from 260,000 to 450,000," while the number of Army nurses has risen only 2,000.

Appearing before the house military committee, the surgeon general supported the nurse draft proposal made by President Roosevelt two weeks ago in his "state of the Union" message to congress.

"We are now receiving in Army hospitals of this country," Kirk testified, "30,000 to 32,000 patients each month, as compared with 8,500 in the first half of 1944. This is an increase of 270 per cent."

"Approximately 15,000 leave hospitals each month. Thus those received double those relieved."

"The increased battle casualties, added to those requiring hospitalization because of sickness and disease, has greatly enlarged the demand for nurses. It is to meet this demand that I now favor the application of Selective Service to fill immediately the shortage in the supply of nurses."

Kirk's testimony interrupted committee work on work-or-be-drafted legislation for men between 18 and 45.

Since last April, Kirk said, 27,000 nurses have graduated, while only 2,000 additional nurses have joined the army medical force.

The surgeon general said the Army has 42,000 nurses now and must have 60,000 to meet present needs.

Kirk told the committee army hospitals in the United States are understaffed because more than 60 per cent of all Army nurses are assigned abroad.

"This country has an obligation," he concluded, "to care for its wounded men. There is hardly an American family that does not have a son or an immediate relative in the armed forces who may some day require medical and nursing care."

North Lima Farm House Badly Damaged By Fire

NORTH LIMA, Jan. 19.—A five-room, two-story tile home, one of two houses on the farm of Leo Swevik, Snodes-New Middletown road, was gutted by fire about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Swevik lost most of their furniture and personal property.

The fire, thought to have been caused by an overheated stove, started on the second floor.

The Beaver township volunteer fire department saved the second house, about three feet from the burned dwelling, and occupied by the owner's son, John Swevik, and family.

Water was pumped from a nearby strip coal mine. The damage is estimated at several thousand dollars.

Attitude Toward Negro Lamented by Dr. Thurman

GRANVILLE, Jan. 19.—Dr. Howard Thurman, professor of theology at Howard university on leave, last night pictured the United States as "spending all its energy on peace for the future and yet utterly unconscious of the diseased areas eating up the heart of our democracy."

"The Negro," he explained, "is being driven into a spiritual ghetto where he is beginning to despise himself because of the superior attitude of the whites in the United States."

Dr. Thurman, who spoke under the auspices of the Granville Council of Churches and Denison university, is co-pastor of the Fellowship Church of All People in San Francisco.

EXPECT MARRIAGE RATE TO DECLINE

(By United Press) NEW YORK — The number of marriages in the United States will fall below the peacetime average soon when the war marriage boom declines from its 1942 peak, a statistical report showed recently.

The report pointed out that in 1944 the marriage rate for the country as a whole declined from the previous year, a trend that is expected to continue.

The overall figures do not tell the complete story, however, say the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. While cities of 100,000 or more in the New England, the Middle Atlantic, and the East North Central States have experienced a decline since 1942, in the urban centers of the West North Central States the decline did not begin until 1943 and in the Southern urban centers until 1944.

The larger cities of the Mountain and Pacific Coast States actually reported an increase in marriages for 1944, though the gain over 1943 was small.

DRAFT OF NURSES IMPERATIVE, SAYS SURGEON GENERAL

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Army's surgeon general said today inadequacy of nursing care, in the face of a 270 per cent increase in battle casualty patients, makes it imperative that nurses be drafted.

Since May, said Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, "our patients have increased from 260,000 to 450,000" while the number of Army nurses has risen only 2,000.

Appearing before the house military committee, the surgeon general supported the nurse draft proposal made by President Roosevelt two weeks ago in his "state of the Union" message to congress.

"We are now receiving in Army hospitals of this country," Kirk testified, "30,000 to 32,000 patients each month, as compared with 8,500 in the first half of 1944. This is an increase of 270 per cent."

"Approximately 15,000 leave hospitals each month. Thus those received double those relieved."

"The increased battle casualties, added to those requiring hospitalization because of sickness and disease, has greatly enlarged the demand for nurses. It is to meet this demand that I now favor the application of Selective Service to fill immediately the shortage in the supply of nurses."

Kirk's testimony interrupted committee work on work-or-be-drafted legislation for men between 18 and 45.

Since last April, Kirk said, 27,000 nurses have graduated, while only 2,000 additional nurses have joined the army medical force.

The surgeon general said the Army has 42,000 nurses now and "must have 60,000 to meet present needs."

Kirk told the committee army hospitals in the United States are understaffed because more than 60 per cent of all Army nurses are assigned abroad.

"This country has an obligation," he concluded, "to care for its wounded men. There is hardly an American family that does not have a son or an immediate relative in the armed forces who may some day require medical and nursing care."

North Lima Farm House Badly Damaged By Fire

NORTH LIMA, Jan. 19.—A five-room, two-story home, one of two houses on the farm of Leo Swetik, Snodes-New Middletown road, was gutted by fire about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Swetik lost most of their furniture and personal property.

The fire, thought to have been caused by an overheated stove, started on the second floor.

The Beaver township volunteer fire department saved the second house, about three feet from the burned dwelling, and occupied by the owner's son, John Swetik, and family.

Water was pumped from a nearby strip coal mine. The damage is estimated at several thousand dollars.

Attitude Toward Negro Lamented by Dr. Thurman

GRANVILLE, Jan. 19.—Dr. Howard Thurman, professor of theology at Howard university on leave, last night pictured the United States as "spending all its energy on peace for the future and yet utterly unconscious of the diseased areas eating up the heart of our democracy."

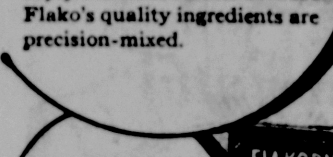

"The Negro," he explained, "is being driven into a spiritual ghetto where he is beginning to despise himself because of the superior attitude of the whites in the United States."

Dr. Thurman, who spoke under the auspices of the Granville Council of Churches and Denison university, is co-pastor of the Fellowship Church of All People in San Francisco.

3 Nazi Agents Plan United States Entry, FBI Chieftain Warns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today sounded an alert for three Nazi espionage agents who, he said, are under orders to enter the United States.

Hoover said the three men have been trained in espionage and sabotage and were associated during their training overseas with Erich Gimpel and William C. Colepaugh who were arrested by the FBI in New York last month after allegedly landing on the Maine coast from a submarine in November.

Hoover asked the nation to report any suspicious persons to the nearest FBI office.

He identified the men as Max Christian Johannes Schneemann, 44, a former resident of Pereira, Colombia, South America; Hans Rudolf Christin Zuehlsdorff, 25, formerly of Bogota, Colombia, and Oscar Max Wilms, 37, formerly of Managua, Nicaragua.

Schneemann, who was employed in a glass factory at Pereira, Hoover said is a former Nazi party member and SS man who reputedly went to Colombia to be a Gestapo agent and propagandist.

Hoover said Schneemann entered the United States at San Francisco April 20, 1942, en route from Colombia to Germany for repatriation. He was received at Camp Kennedy, Texas, April 23, 1942, and left Jersey City, N. J., on the Steamer Sera Pinto July 3, 1942.

He was born in 1901 at Hoechst, Main, Germany, according to the announcement, which added he is five feet, eleven inches tall, weighs from 160 to 170 pounds and is of athletic build.

His eyes are dark, his hair brown and gray. Hoover said he sometimes wears a moustache, has a hand clasp tattooed on his right arm, is a good swimmer and horseman.

He was further described as being proficient with cards, and as a man who dresses well, preferring dark suits, and in the habit of combing his hair frequently. The announcement said he has a wife and 18-year-old daughter in Berlin.

Zuehlsdorff was described as a commercial advertiser and sales representative for a German firm in Bogota who is reported to have engaged in English language propaganda broadcasts for the Nazis.

Hoover said he entered the United States from Colombia, arriving at San Francisco April 20, 1942, and was sent to the Greenbrier hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., prior to his departure for repatriation July 15, 1942.

He was born in Germany in 1919, the announcement said, but has spent most of his life in Latin America.

He is described as six feet tall, weighing from 132 to 140 pounds, and of slender build. His hair is brown and his eyes hazel. He has two line scars on his right forehead. He wears dark glasses. His teeth were described as false and he has a habit of cracking them loudly.

Hoover said he sometimes wears a black moustache.

Wilms was described as a former partner in a German import-export firm at Managua.

He is said to have entered the United States in 1936 at New York. He left New York Feb. 15, 1944.

Wilms was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1907. He is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs 127 pounds. He has a medium build, blonde hair and gray eyes, with a high forehead, cleft chin, and good teeth. He speaks English with little accent.

Father and Two Sons Die In Fire At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—A war worker and two of his sons died early today when fire trapped them in their North Braddock home. The dead, found in a second floor bedroom, were James Mildon, 37; Jack, 12, and William 4.

Nore Mildon, 17, with her 10-month-old sister Janet wrapped in her housecoat, leaped from a 15-foot high porch roof, then tumbled down an embankment and over a five foot retaining wall. She was treated for bruises.

Her brother, Walter, 15, also jumped and was caught in the arms of a fireman.

Taft Hits Job Plan

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) said last night the senate's Kilgore subcommittee policy on the guarantee of six million jobs at $2,500 a year would "destroy the very freedom for which our armies fight."

Taft, speaking with Philip Murray, CIO president, and Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel Co., at the National Industrial Conference board meeting, added that a guarantee of work by the government to every individual is inconsistent with the freedom which produced the machine which provides jobs at good wages.

Describes Warsaw As One Big Ruin

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Soviet Russia's leading war correspondent reported today the Germans had exiled every living inhabitant of Warsaw before yielding the Polish capital to the Red army.

Describing the newly seized city as "one big ruin, smelling of burning destruction," M. Makarenko wrote in Pravda:

"No single live human was among this devastation. The Germans had exiled all the inhabitants."

The Communist party newspaper story was broadcast by the Moscow radio and was recorded in London.

A graphic account of Warsaw's capture was given.

"Soviet and Polish troops are marching to the west along wrecked streets," the correspondent wrote. "The inhabitants are coming back to a city which has practically ceased to exist."

"During the abortive uprising of last August the Germans wrought destruction with sadistic brutality, methodically turning street after street to ashes."

He declared all the most widely known structures in the city were destroyed. These included the Royal castle, Belvedere castle (the presidential palace), the tomb of the unknown soldier, and the Chopin monument.

Manpower Controls Effective Monday

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 — A new five-point program constituting the most drastic controls over male labor yet formulated by the War Manpower commission will become effective in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky next Monday.

Robert C. Goodwin, regional WMC director, last night described the program as "a general tightening-up of our referral standards."

The new regulations limit referral of male job seekers only to suitable openings in plants on the national "must" list or to local plants with the highest urgency rating.

The male job seeker previously has had the privilege of being referred to any essential job opening for which he was qualified.

Gate hiring privileges will be withdrawn from all areas with the exception of firms on the national or local "must" or super-critical lists and a small number of firms so located that they cannot be served by local offices of the U. S. Employment Service.

The WMC's employment ceiling program will be extended and agreements with other referral agencies will be revised to restrict referrals to openings on the "must" list. A region-wide compliance program will be placed in effect.

NEGRO CONFESSES DEATH OF BANKER

ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—A 30-year-old Negro railroad worker had confessed, Dekalb County Police Chief Leo Nahlik announced, that he killed Henry C. Heinz, Atlanta banker and former president of Kiwanis International, in his home here the night of Sept. 28, 1943.

Nahlik said the Negro, Horace Bialock, wrote the confession after 15 hours of questioning.

The banker was shot to death by an intruder while his wife, the daughter of the late Asa Candler, founder of the Coca Cola Co., ran into an adjoining room for a gun. Dr. Bryant King Vann, son-in-law of Heinz, was seriously wounded in an exchange of shots with police as ran up through the dark in response to a telephone call from Mrs. Heinz.

The Negro's alleged confession said he entered the Heinz home in De Kalb county to burglarize it and was surprised by the banker.

3 Nazi Agents Plan United States Entry, FBI Chieftain Warns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today sounded an alert for three Nazi espionage agents who, he said, are under orders to enter the United States.

Hoover said the three men have been trained in espionage and sabotage and were associated during their training overseas with Erich Gimpel and William C. Colepaugh who were arrested by the FBI in New York last month after allegedly landing on the Maine coast from a submarine in November.

Hoover asked the nation to report any suspicious persons to the nearest FBI office.

He identified the men as Max Christian Johannes Schneemann, 44, a former resident of Pereira, Colombia, South America; Hans Rudolf Christin Zuehlisdorff, 25, formerly of Bogota, Colombia, and Oscar Max Wilms, 37, formerly of Managua, Nicaragua.

Schneemann, who was employed in a glass factory at Pereira, Hoover said, is a former Nazi party member and SS man who reputedly went to Colombia to be a Gestapo agent and propagandist.

Hoover said Schneemann entered the United States at San Francisco April 20, 1942, en route from Colombia to Germany for repatriation. He was received at Camp Kennedy, Texas, April 23, 1942, and left Jersey City, N. J., on the Steamer Sera Pinto July 3, 1942.

He was born in 1901 at Hoechst, Main, Germany, according to the announcement, which added he is five feet, eleven inches tall, weighs from 160 to 170 pounds and is of athletic build.

His eyes are dark, his hair brown and gray. Hoover said he sometimes wears a moustache, has a hand clasp tattooed on his right arm, is a good swimmer and horseman.

He was further described as being proficient with cards, and as a man who dresses well, preferring dark suits, and in the habit of combing his hair frequently. The announcement said he has a wife and 18-year-old daughter in Berlin.

Zuehlisdorff was described as a commercial advertiser and sales representative for a German firm in Bogota who is reported to have engaged in English language propaganda broadcasts for the Nazis.

Hoover said he entered the United States from Colombia, arriving at San Francisco April 20, 1942, and was sent to the Greenbrier hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., prior to his departure for repatriation July 15, 1942.

He was born in Germany in 1919, the announcement said, but has spent most of his life in Latin America.

He is described as six feet tall, weighing from 132 to 140 pounds, and of slender build. His hair is brown and his eyes hazel. He has two line scars on his right forehead. He wears dark glasses. His teeth were described as false and he has a habit of cracking them loudly.

Hoover said he sometimes wears a black moustache.

Wilms was described as a former partner in a German import-export firm at Managua.

He is said to have entered the United States in 1936 at New York, left New York Feb. 15, 1944.

Wilms was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1907. He is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs 127 pounds. He has a medium build, blonde hair and gray eyes, with a high forehead, cleft chin, and good teeth. He speaks English with little accent.

Father and Two Sons Die In Fire At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—A war worker and two of his sons died early today when fire trapped them in their North Braddock home. The dead, found in a second floor bedroom, were James Mildon, 37; Jack, 12, and William, 4.

Mildon, 1, with her 10-month-old sister Janet wrapped in her housecoat, leaped from a 15-foot high porch roof, then tumbled down an embankment and over a five foot retaining wall. She was treated for bruises.

Her brother, Walter, 15, also jumped and was caught in the arms of a fireman.

Taft Hits Job Plan

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) said last night the senate's Kilgore subcommittee policy on the guarantee of sixty million jobs at $2,500 a year would "destroy the very freedom for which our armies fight."

Taft, speaking with Phillip Murray, CIO president, and Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel Co., at the National Industrial Conference board meeting, added that a guarantee of work by the government to every individual is inconsistent with the freedom which produced the machine which provides jobs at good wages.

Describes Warsaw As One Big Ruin

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Soviet Russia's leading war correspondent reported today the Germans had exiled every living inhabitant of Warsaw before yielding the Polish capital to the Red army.

Describing the newly seized city as "one big ruin, smelling of burning destruction," M. Makarenko wrote in Pravda:

"No single live human was among this devastation. The Germans had exiled all the inhabitants."

The Communist party newspaper story was broadcast by the Moscow radio and was recorded in London.

A graphic account of Warsaw's capture was given.

"Soviet and Polish troops are marching to the west along wrecked streets," the correspondent wrote. "The inhabitants are coming back to a city which has practically ceased to exist."

"During the abortive uprising of last August the Germans wrought destruction with sadistic brutality, methodically turning street after street to ashes."

He declared all the most widely known structures in the city were destroyed. These included the Royal castle, Belvedere castle (the presidential palace), the tomb of the unknown soldier, and the Chopin monument.

Manpower Controls Effective Monday

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19.—A new five-point program constituting the most drastic controls over male labor yet formulated by the War Manpower commission will become effective in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky next Monday.

Robert C. Goodwin, regional WMC director, last night described the program as "a general tightening-up of our referral standards."

The new regulations limit referral of male job seekers only to suitable openings in plants on the national "must" list or to local plants with the highest urgency rating. The male job seeker previously has had the privilege of being referred to any essential job opening for which he was qualified.

Gate hiring privileges will be withdrawn from all areas with the exception of firms on the national or local "must" or super-critical lists and a small number of firms so located that they cannot be served by local offices of the U. S. Employment Service.

The WMC's employment ceiling program will be extended and agreements with other referral agencies will be revised to restrict referrals to openings on the "must" list. A region-wide compliance program will be placed in effect.

NEGRO CONFESSES DEATH OF BANKER

ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—A 30-year-old Negro railroad worker had confessed, Dekalb County Police Chief Leo Nahlik announced, that he killed Henry C. Heinz, Atlanta banker and former president of Kiwanis International, in his home here the night of Sept. 28, 1943.

Nahlik said the Negro, Horace Blalock, wrote the confession after 15 hours of questioning.

The banker was shot to death by an intruder while his wife, the daughter of the late Asa Candler, founder of the Cocoa Cola Co., ran into an adjoining room for a gun. Dr. Bryant King Vann, son-in-law of Heinz, was seriously wounded in an exchange of shots with police as ran up through the dark in response to a telephone call from Mrs. Heinz.

The Negro's alleged confession said he entered the Heinz home in De Kalb county to burglarize it and was surprised by the banker.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

this working already in the two offensives on the Western front—the British attack north of Aachen and the American Third Army thrust in northern Luxembourg.

The British drive is to eliminate a troublesome salient which the Germans long have maintained in the Allied line, and the Luxembourg action could be a local affair. However, both are testing Rundstedt's mettle and any signs of German weakness will result in an immediate swelling of the Allied pressure against him.

It's particularly necessary to keep up this pressure in the west since two German armored divisions are reported by London to be enroute to the eastern front from the Rhenish theatre. That's grand news, for it means that the Hitlerites are indeed desperate and are being forced to emulate the old Kaiser in the last war in shuttling troops back and forth between two fronts.

SOVIETS

is beginning to take shape, said Moscow dispatches. Lodz is 250 miles from the German capital.

The troops of Marshals Gregory Zhukov and Konstantin Rokossovsky in the center and north were overrunning the snowcovered countryside in a fashion hardly matched in this war, with Cossacks and Siberian horsemen spearheading the advance.

The Red air force, out in the strength of 30,000 sorties in the last 72 hours, was sweeping German air-dromes just inside the Reich's border with massed raids.

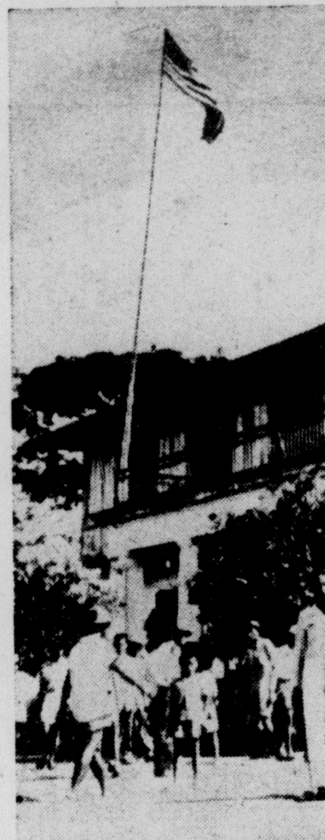

The German high command said a battle of the "greatest ferocity" was raging all along the Polish line from Krakow and Czestochowa to Lodz, Kutno and the Vistula.

Moscow dispatches confirmed German reports that Heinrich Himmler's home guards, the Volksturm, had been encountered on the frontiers of Silesia but so far Berlin was the only source of reports that Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian army had stormed to the Reich's border at the southern end of the Polish front.

dangerous Germany from the west as the Russians endangered her from the east.

The German commander managed to get a few tanks and guns of his fifth and sixth Panzer armies back out of the smashed Ardennes bulge, but these constituted his only known mobile reserve. Most of the units needed refitting; the reserve could not be before Dusseldorf, St. Vith and Trier at the same time.

(The German radio said the Allies had opened a broad offensive on the southern flank of the Belgian salient between Wiltz and Walendorf.)

Hongen, which fell to the British Second army with American artillery support, is 38 miles from Dusseldorf on the Rhine. It lies about eight from the Roer river, along which the U. S. 9th army held static positions within 25 miles of Dusseldorf, an arsenal city.

OHIO MAYORS SEEK BIGGER TAX SHARE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 19—A greater share of the state sales tax revenue for cities will be asked from the state legislature by the newly-organized Ohio Conference of Mayors.

The conference will press for legislation to encourage private capital to remove blighted areas, state matching of local funds for indigent hospitalization and application of the one-cent gasoline tax to highway construction rather than to the general fund.

The research committee preparing the program consists of Lloyd Roulet of Toledo, James E. Neighbors of Newark and N. J. Speas-maker of London.

Officers elected at the conference were: President, James Rhodes of Columbus; first vice president, Harry C. Bennington of Mt. Vernon; second vice president, Harry Van Wagoner of Lorain; secretary, Cloyce H. Dutweiler of Findlay; treasurer, Vern F. Ross of Cambridge.

The War Today By DeWitt MacKenzie

this working already in the two offensives on the Western front—the British attack north of Aachen and the American Third Army thrust in northern Luxembourg.

The British drive is to eliminate a troublesome salient which the Germans long have maintained in the Allied line, and the Luxembourg action could be a local affair. However, both are testing Rundstedt's mettle and any signs of German weakness will result in an immediate swelling of the Allied pressure against him.

It's particularly necessary to keep up this pressure in the west since two German armored divisions are reported by London to be enroute to the eastern front from the Rhenish theatre. That's grand news, for it means that the Hitlerites are indeed desperate and are being forced to emulate the old Kaiser in the last war in shutting troops back and forth between two fronts.

is beginning to take shape, said Moscow dispatches. Lodz is 250 miles from the German capital.

The troops of Marshals Gregory Zhukov and Konstantin Rokossovsky in the center and north were overrunning the snowcovered countryside in a fashion hardly matched in this war, with Cossacks and Siberian horsemen spearheading the advance.

The Red air force, out in the strength of 30,000 sorties in the last 72 hours, was sweeping German air-dromes just inside the Reich's border with massed raids.

The German high command said a battle of the "greatest ferocity" was raging all along the Polish line from Krakow and Czestochowa to Lodz, Kutno and the Vistula.

Moscow dispatches confirmed German reports that Heinrich Himmler's home guards, the Volksturm, had been encountered on the frontiers of Silesia but so far Berlin was the only source of reports that Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian army had stormed to the Reich's border at the southern end of the Polish front.

dangerous Germany from the west as the Russians endangered her from the east.

The German commander managed to get a few tanks and guns of his fifth and sixth Panzer armies back out of the smashed Ardennes bulge, but these constituted his only known mobile reserve. Most of the units needed refitting; the reserve could not be before Dusseldorf, St. Vith and Trier at the same time.

(The German radio said the Allies had opened a broad offensive on the southern flank of the Belgian salient between Wiltz and Walendorf.)

Honsen, which fell to the British Second army with American artillery support, is 38 miles from Dusseldorf on the Rhine. It lies about eight from the Roer river, along which the U. S. 9th army held static positions within 26 miles of Dusseldorf, an arsenal city.

The research committee preparing the program consists of Lloyd Roulet of Toledo, James E. Neighbors of Newark and N. J. Speaker-maker of London.

Officers elected at the conference were: President, James Rhodes of Columbus; first vice president, Harry C. Bennington of Mt. Vernon; second vice president, Harry Van Wagner of Lorain; secretary, Clyde H. Duttweiler of Findlay; treasurer, Vern F. Ross of Cambridge.

CORPSES AT INDIAN STONES by Philip Wylie

© 1943 BY AUTHOR—DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

How would you like to have been christened Agamemnon Telemachus Plum and — though now a learned doctor and professor, age 34—to be called by many: "AG-GIE"? Even the Greeks might have no classic word for your answer. And to be under the personal social supervision of Aunt Sarah, jolly, sophisticated, and gossipy? Well, Aggie and Aunt are now in the ancient and expensive family limousine with Windle, the chauffeur, and Chille, the maid, motoring north towards the mountains from the summer heat of New York City. En route to Indian Stones, Aunt Sarah promotes Beth Calder as a matrimonial prospect for Aggie, mentioning a family scandal which prompts her nephew to exclaim, "And you want me to marry into this shambles!" He warns her (even in Latin) against thrusting prospective wives on him.

CHAPTER THREE

The antique automobile bumbled along through the countryside. Afternoon was replaced by early evening. In a town far to the north, they stopped for dinner. Nothing more was said about the match-making proclivities of Sarah Plum. Her nephew regaled her with a tale of certain events and customs which he had observed among the fire-worshipping natives of a place called, as nearly as she could catch it, Calumbaloola.

The turn-off for Indian Stones was marked by a sign made of birch logs—a sign that had been there for twenty-two years—or a replica of the old sign. Girch rots pretty fast, Aggie thought, so it was probably a replacement. Nevertheless, it filled him with nostalgia, which surprised him, because his summers at the resort had been lonely. Sarah had done her best to compensate for his mother, who had died at the time of his birth, and his father, who had survived her by seven years. But nobody can make up for such destitution.

Route 665, where Windle swung the car, had been black—and tarry in the summer. Now it was cement. But the Indian Stones road was still unpaved. Hard gravel rained on the fenders. Mudguards, they'd called them in those days. The luminous dish on his wrist pointed to ten o'clock. The car began winding and climbing; the air was fragrant with the scent of pine and a subliminal smell of near-by fresh water. They passed the Waite house and the Calder house—rambling, big, rustic, dimly familiar. They swung into the straight stretch between Upper and Lower Lake, past the first and last holes of the golf course and the clubhouse. Its rococo roof-jumble rose weirdly against the stars. Dr. Plum remembered the rooms in it, and the cellars under it, where he and some other kids had played pirate and Count of Monte Cristo—cellars of a hotel which had burned down. They'd built the club on the old foundations. And the date on the clubhouse, in scroll woodwork above the fieldstone supporting the porch, was 1885. There had been people—well-to-do people—at Indian Stones for many generations.

The road forked and forked again. Headlights touched calm water and swung away. They were nearing the drive of "Rainbow Lodge." Every house here was a "lodge." He turned toward his aunt.

"I'm awake," Sarah said. "I've been watching your watch." She spoke with some difficulty.

"Your sore throat's worse!" he said.

"Nonsense! It's not a sore throat, anyway. Not exactly. My jaws feel stiff, that's all."

"We'll get you inside, Sarah." There was affection and worry in his tone. "Then—if you like—I'll go to Dr. Davis. He's up here now. I suppose?"

"Of course. We've all been coming on the twentieth—for generations. Your father did. Our father did before him. George is here—but I don't need a doctor. I need a little rest—that's all. I've worried myself sick for fear you'd refuse to summer with me—at the last moment. This is just let-down."

Aggie reached over and took her firm, large hand. He squeezed it. "You're a honey, Sarah! Wozy-brained—but your heart's all right." Lights glimmered through the trees. The car turned into a foliated tunnel. Sarah's cottage was the size of a summer hotel. On its front porch, beside the portico, stood old John, the butler who had been in Sarah's service a quarter of a century before, when Aggie was a noisy young master of the place.

The professor leaped out of the car and seized the old man's arms. "John! You haven't changed a particle! Sarah didn't tell me you'd be here! This is great! And—look. Sarah's feeling badly—so you and Chille get her inside, first. I'll take care of the bags, with Windle."

"It's mighty nice to see you, Mr. Aggie." He peered at the professor with the pathetic eagerness of the family retainer who has missed the steps between a childhood and a maturity. He could not seem to reconcile the bearded man with a memory which slowly faded from his eyes. He went down to aid Sarah, glancing back at Aggie. The pair, harried by Chille, walked into the house. Windle began unstrap-ping, unstrapping, unbuckling and uncovering.

Aggie left him at the chore. He stepped up on the big, shadowy veranda. The light over the front door was not burning; Sarah had entered through a side vestibule. In the gloom, he slid his hand along the railing to see if the initials he had carved long ago—and for which carving he'd had his ears boxed—were still tangible in the wood. They were. He fingered them. A.T.P. Something in old John's eyes had started him thinking. (To Be Continued)

Salem Travels Tomorrow To Meet Warren Harding Cagers

Miller Men Seeking Eighth Win In Nine Games Against Twice-Beaten Presidents

SALEM	POSITION	WARREN
Mutt Schaeffer	Forward	Bob Robinson
Norm Smith	Forward	Bill Kraker
Walt Brian	Center	Jack Polena
Francis Lannoy	Guard	Nick Cristo
Jim Appedisian	Guard	Ted Lotz

Game time: 8:15. Place: At Warren High school.

Barring a post-East Liverpool game let-down, the Salem Quakers are looking as favorites over the Warren Harding Presidents Saturday evening, when they take to the road again.

Pre-game considerations—along with the usual desire to knock off the larger school—give Salem the advantage in this week's only test. Warren, though far from an easy assignment, has a greener, smaller and lower-scoring outfit than Coach Bob Miller. In nine tries this season the Presidents have piled up only 340 points as compared to 357 for Salem in eight games.

Defensively Salem rates a somewhat better mark also. Quaker opponents have chalked up 327 points in eight games while Warren's opposition has scored 288, nearly as many as the Presidents.

Averages show Salem at an offensive mark of 45 points per game while they have averaged 37.

The Presidents have the following record: Victories over, Cleveland Holy Name, 39-29; Cleveland East Tech, 32-29; Ashtabula Harbor, 32-27; Akron Kenmore, 35-32; Campbell Memorial, 45-34; Girard, 57-28 and Youngstown Wilson 50-33.

They have lost to Youngstown Ursuline, 36-30 and Farrell, Pa., 40-20. A game with Canton McKinley last Saturday was postponed because of bad road conditions.

In spite of a record not quite so impressive as the Quakers', the Warrenites have faced stiffer opposition.

That may be the telling difference between the point-by-point comparisons of the two squads. However, Warren's opponents haven't compiled too enviable a group of records and at the same time came close, in almost every instance, to beating the Presidents.

Good At Home
Being away from the home floor won't help the locals any and so far this year they haven't shown up exceptionally well on any other floor but their own.

However, Coach Miller took his charges to Leetonia Wednesday for a brief but beneficial workout on a strange and roomier court. He reports the drill work did some good and expects a better out-of-town showing by his squad this week.

To take the Presidents to task, Coach Miller will again be slightly below his peak on manpower, Ray Kelly, out for two games with an injured knee, but probably won't see much action. Don Firth, however, is over his ankle trouble and will be on the bench as a valuable substitute at the guard assignment.

Walt Brian, Jim Appedisian, Norm Smith, Mutt Schaeffer and Francis Lannoy are slated for the tip-off assignments once again.

This all-veteran outfit contrasts to the Warren starting group considerably as to experience. Coach

TWO UNEVEN FRAYS MARK B LOOP PLAY

Leetonia and Shamrocks Have Easy Time To Post League Wins

Two one-sided victories—by the Shamrocks and Leetonia—marked play in Class B at the Memorial building last night as the Men About Town and Washingtonville cagers dropped their first games of the second round.

Limiting their opponents to just five field goals, the Shamrocks piled up 18 on their own to total 36 points against 14 for the Irish. Zimmerman and Ingledue paced the winners with 24 points while Harrington's five led the losers.

Leetonia's Gorcheff led the play in the other game with 12 points as the Leetonia men piled up a 37-11 win over Washingtonville. J. Driscoll topped the losers with six points.

The eight-team league is in its second round of play with the undefeated Salem Chicks, Zions, Leetonia and the Shamrocks leading in a four-way tie for top spot. All have won one game.

Ex-Moundsman Hurls Grenades At Germans

WITH U. S. SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION IN BELGIUM, Jan. 19.—In civilian life Staff Sgt. Raymond A. Flannigan pitched for the Baltimore Orioles and during a recent German counter-attack he proved he could toss lead too.

Enemy troops forced him to pull back into a house from the firing line he had voluntarily formed to cover a gap in the Yank sector. When two Nazis crawled to within 15 yards and tossed grenades, the former moundsman stepped out, killed both Germans and ducked back into the house before the grenades burst.

Flannigan exposed himself again to draw fire from a German machine gun, enabling a buddy to locate the Nazi and kill him with a rifle shot.

Sport Chatter

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Within two minutes after word reached the bowlers victory legion headquarters in Washington that service men overseas were short of playing cards, the wheels were turning to send them 200,000 decks.

Arville L. Ebersole, National BVL director, hardly had finished reading a letter from the Army special services division before he was telephoning Chairman Elmer Baumgarten of the American Bowling Congress.

Baumgarten arranged to divert 100,000 decks from civilian orders, which made it possible to muster the 200,000. Nearly 100 ambitious blind toms turned out for the opening session of a school conducted by the Northwest Umpires association in Minneapolis recently.

That's the first real proof an umpire ever wanted to know anything. When Leo Houck, veteran in Iceland and Greenland, his pals presented him a pair of red, fur-lined car muffs, labeled "specially designed for cauliflower ears."

FOUL PLAY IN FITZBURG

John Connelly, sports editor of the Fitzburg, Mass., Sentinel reports that 117 basketball fouls were called in an industrial league triple header there, 47 in one game, with five different officials tooting the whistles.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The new agreement between professional and amateur hockey ruling bodies provides that after Jan. 15 this year no pro club can use an amateur player without the consent of his amateur club and the president of the Canadian or U. S. Amateur associations.

An ex-pro can apply for reinstatement 15 days after his release if he no longer can secure a professional job. The National Baseball museum seeks information as to who pitched the first curve ball.

Doc Parrshall, leading harness horse driver for many years, has asked for driver's license No. 13 for the coming season—if there is a season.

It cost $3.20 a seat in Paris to see "Home In Indiana," the trotting-horse movie. A lot of soldiers would pay more than that if they could be home in Indiana.

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Fendley Collins, president of the American Wrestling Coaches association, coach of wrestling and associate professor of physical education at Michigan State College, predicts that high schools and colleges will be called upon to provide more extensive training in physical education not only to cope with the present war emergency, but for future insurance as well.

NIGHT RELAYS ON PROBABLE ROSTER FOR 1945 SEASON

Revival Doubtful, however; Mansfield Relays, Others Will Resume

(By Associated Press)

DUNCAN FALLS, Jan. 19.—Ed Barker, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Association of Track coaches, announced that the Mansfield relays, formerly one of the largest high school track events in the country, has been revived this year, and is scheduled tentatively for April 21.

He announced dates for 20 track and field meets and three tentative relays for the coming season. Dates definitely set are: March 23, K. of C. indoor meet at Cleveland; April 26, Plainville Invitational.

Although state officials today listed the Salem Night Relays as a possible spring track event, officials here said they had no verification for the story.

The Night Relays, discontinued for the duration two years ago, probably will not re-open until after hostilities, High school officials indicated today.

Faculty Manager Fred Cope said he knew of no negotiations nor possibilities that might revive the event this year.

Tentative meets other than the one at Mansfield are the Salem night relays at Salem and the Muskingum relays at New Concord on May 12. District High school meets will be held on May 18 and 19 and the state meet on May 25 and 26.

Waifs Made Start Wards

BOSTON—Records show that 51 babies have been abandoned in Massachusetts during the past 14 years. In 11 cases the parents eventually were identified. The other waifs became state wards.

B-29 ALARM HORN SAVES MEN'S LIVES

WASHINGTON—A kind of high-flying burglar alarm is among the life-protecting mechanisms in our B-29 Superforts.

The alarm is a warning horn which sounds automatically if pressure inside the special pressurized cabins of the big bombers fall below a safe level.

Cannon shell or flak, ripping holes in the cabin's walls, would cause a rapid pressure loss. If the men didn't adjust oxygen masks quickly, they'd be overcome.

Brigadier General Charles R. Glenn, the deputy air surgeon, in a report in the Medical Annals of the District of Columbia, says the automatic warning horn gives crewmen the tip-off on when to slap on their masks.

"Crew members," he writes, "are trained to hold their breath and to put on their oxygen mask when the horn sounds. The masks are carried hung over their shoulders at all times during pressurized flight."

The Army Air Forces have developed special "pressure masks" which deliver 100 per cent oxygen to a man and enable him to carry out normal duties for a half hour or more at the tremendous heights of 45,000 to 50,000 feet.

They are not a substitute for cabin pressurization, but they'd tide a man over an emergency period when the pressurized cabin had been damaged.

These pressure masks are distinguished from the "demand" type of oxygen mask with which the flier gets pure oxygen delivered to him as he inhales. The latter system is effective up to about 40,000 feet. At 40,000 feet or over, special pressure is required to force oxygen from the lungs into the blood stream.

Walls Made Start Wards
 BOSTON—Records show that 51 babies have been abandoned in Massachusetts during the past 14 years. In 11 cases the parents eventually were identified. The other walls became state wards.

B-29 ALARM HORN SAVES MEN'S LIVES

WASHINGTON—A kind of high-flying burglar alarm is among the life-protecting mechanisms in our B-29 Superforts.

The alarm is a warning horn which sounds automatically if pressure inside the special pressurized cabins of the big bombers fall below a safe level.

Cannon shell or flak, ripping holes in the cabin's walls, would cause a rapid pressure loss. If the men didn't adjust oxygen masks quickly, they'd be overcome.

Brigadier General Charles R. Glenn, the deputy air surgeon, in a report in the Medical Annals of the District of Columbia, says the automatic warning horn gives crewmen the tip-off on when to slap on their masks.

"Crew members," he writes, "are trained to hold their breath and to put on their oxygen mask when the horn sounds. The masks are carried hung over their shoulders at all times during pressurized flight."

The Army Air Forces have developed special "pressure masks" which deliver 100 per cent oxygen to a man and enable him to carry out normal duties for a half hour or more at the tremendous heights of 45,000 to 50,000 feet.

They are not a substitute for cabin pressurization, but they'd tide a man over an emergency period when the pressurized cabin had been damaged.

These pressure masks are distinguished from the "demand" type of oxygen mask with which the flier gets pure oxygen delivered to him as he inhales. The latter system is effective up to about 40,000 feet.

At 40,000 feet or over, special pressure is required to force oxygen from the lungs into the blood stream.

The Belgian Congo is the world's principal producer of industrial diamonds.

Dehydrated peaches, persimmons, grapes, pineapples and pears can be soaked in concentrated orange juice or grape juice to reconstitute them and make them easier to cut for use in fruit cake. The first settlement by white men in Australia was on the site of modern Sydney in 1788.
